SC Delegates Need Housing

With Mac Arthur as President of the Texas Association of Student Councils, comes the responsibility of housing students from all over the state of Texas.

With so many warm-hearted and friendly, fun loving people at Mac, don't you think we could easily find people to house 500 fellow farm-hearted and friendly, fun-loving Texans?

Apparently not! MacArthur is to house 500 students for the Convention April 4 through 6. So far only 250 students have places to sleep for two nights and have two breakfasts. It isn't very encouraging to venture to another part of your home state just to find that nobody cares enough to volunteer their houses.

Part of spirit in a school is participation! So, why not go by Mr. Sidney King's office in the 300 wing and ask for a TASC housing form. I LIKE MAC (do you)?

April Experiment

This issue of the Brahma Tales is the new magazine format that you've been waiting for. The purpose of changing styles is to find the most pleasing and interesting high school newspaper style.

With the changing times, techniques of journalism evolve, too. Many high schools throughout the nation are trying this magazine form to promote a greater reader interest. Our last issue was printed on newsprint and in the traditional newspaper style. We will return to that style for our remaining five issues.

The Brahma Tales staff is interested in readers' opinions of this issue and the earlier issues. We shall welcome constructive criticism and comments of preference, for consideration in selecting our style for next year.

Watch for the readers' poll on this question in your advisory soon.

Student Council Credit To Mac

by Saul Wheeler

The 1968 MacArthur Student Council has done so much and has done it so well that I am in a quandary over what to congratulate them on first.

Should I start out by saying that, as President of the Texas Association of Student Councils, MacArthur has a huge responsibility and that it has shouldered it admirably by hosting HemisForum which will be held this summer at Trinity University offering foreign exchange students from all over Texas an opportunity to discuss the world problems of today which therefore bring about a "confluence of cultures" which is the main purpose or perhaps should I not mention that at all since it is such a fabulous idea and everybody already knows about it?

Or should I begin by saying that this month, March was "I LIKE MAC" month, sponsored by the Student Council which really turned out to be a success as is apparent by the many Macsters still wearing their I LIKE MAC buttons and also how clean the campus has become?

Or should I start out by saying that the Student Council must really have some reputation because on Feb. 21 it brought the Classics IV to MacArthur and it hopes to bring the Strawberry Alarmclock very soon?

Or should I say that Mac is in charge of housing for the TASC Convention and that we are very close to reaching our housing quota?

Or should I even try to say that on March 15 the MacArthur Student Council put on the most successive Talent Show in the history of the school or should I have said that at the very first?

Well, I give up. I cannot decide what to say when so I will leave it up to you. You can go through with a pen and number all of the ideas and arrange them like you want. But be careful. They may all turn out to be NUMBER ONE!

Will you be going to HemisFair '68? If so, you are in for one of the most unforgettable, thrilling, and enjoyable experiences of your life!

HemisFair '68, the first World's Fair to take place in the Southwestern United States, will be open from April 6 to October 6. Though countries from all the far flung reaches of the world will be represented, HemisFair is mainly emphasizing countries of the Western Hemisphere. Other highlights on display will be the latest technological advancements made by such large corporations as General Electric and the Bell Telephone system. There will be all sorts of amusements and divisions throughout the fair.

Everyone is guaranteed a fine time, so be sure that you pay a visit!
